

It's WAR! Flintshards Denizens awoke on Thursday, to find a veritable armada parked off their coast: Ships from every part of the Warhammer World scrambling to find a safe harbour from which to disgorge their cargo of Soldiery and horses and engines of war on to our cold and grey coast line. Reports suggest that Expeditionary Forces from various realms have been sent chasing rumours of Gold in Flintshards rugged hills, after a lost mariner washed up in Bordeleaux's harbour last month. La Belle Damsel Delphine was beside the mariners deathbed; "He said there was Gold. At least, I'm pretty sure he did. That's what everyone thinks, anyway." she is reported to have said. However others were quick to pour cold water on such rumours. Trey Bormynt, High Priest of the Temple of Kold, is adamant that there is no Gold to be found; "They're all on a fools errand! There's no Gold here! This "Mariner" was clearly our missing Tour Guide, Rodney, who had been sent to drum up tourism for the temple. To be honest, we thought he'd been eaten by a Mega-badger."

It is too soon to say what will become of these wild adventurers on their misbegotten quest, but spirits were high amongst some of the newcomers; Kheith the Rhyll-Raiser, is looking forward to tearing mortal flesh and spilling mortal blood, but lamented the difficulty of getting planning permission for his new daemonic coastal resort of Rhyll "Honestly, you'd think it'd be a doddle, but it

FAKE WIZARD WARNING! Flintshard Council have issued a warning over fake wizards selling their services to campaigning military commanders. "These unlicensed, unregulated, spellcasters are a menace!" Said Union of Wizards, Witches & Warlocks Rep. Bry Babble. "Fraudsters pretending to do actual magic when they can barely pull a rabbit out of a hat are ruining the reputations of genuine practitioners of the Arcane Arts, and the UoWWW will be taking legal action to protect our members!". Bernard the Magnificent was quick to reassure his Imperial employers that his arcane credentials were genuine. "I am a Wizard! I just turned you into a carrot! Wooooo!"

20%OFF!!!!FIRE SALE!!!!20% OFF!

Got a foe that only fire will cure? ??

All Enchanted Flaming Weapons, Runes and Banners are 20% off! This week only!

Get them while they're HOT!!!

Visit the emporium of the Cunning Quince, on the street of Magical Machinations, today!

was absolute hell; the council had us tied up in red tape for weeks!"

However, Paladin Cassian von Aelric is clearly missing distant and fair Bretonnia; "Tis damp, dark, and full of unsavoury people. Reminds me of Mousillon." But such a melancholy view hasn't stopped Cassian and the dozens like him from enjoying every opportunity to partake of the sudden increase of violent incidents that have erupted across Flintshard of late.

Recent reports suggest that no fewer than sixteen battles have already taken place on our shores, as the newcomers immediately took to fighting each other over anything and everything. Flintshard resident Geroff Myland was incensed by the wanton destruction; "First, that Sir Philippe Le Foppe turns up and slaps a sign on it that says 'Watchtower' , then some bloke on a bear rides up, rips the sign down, 'its Sir Phillip with it, and sticks 'is own sign up that says 'Wizards Tower'...Its my bleedin' Garden Shed! I've a good mind to write to the council!".

But not everyone was so angry at the visitors disregard for other peoples property. Chief Cleric Ivanna Prayalot claimed that she and her brethren had been doing a roaring trade in Shrine and Shrine related Paraphernalia; "They're spending their money here, which is great for Flintshards economy. They can't seem to get enough of our generic religious iconography."

Mega-Badgers Ate my Tour Guide! page 3
BloodBowl Results latest! page 12
Astromancer Alans Almanac page 9
And More!